OUR CHAPEL HILL LETTER.

CHAPEL HILL, May 22, 1876. The recitations are finished and the examination week is upon us. The professors have loaded their gans to the muzzle, but the enemy is undaunted. The legionaries, well trained by the campaign of nine months, are sure of glorious victory; the lighthea ... light-armed troops I mean, expert at skirmishing, dodging and retreating will find their tactics unfit for the hand to-hand encounter; while the ardent cavalry, now eagerly bridling and currying their steeds. will, when girths are broken, saddles gone, and ponies unmanageable, gaze sadly at their delusive banner, sic itur ad astra, (pitched higher than a kite.) Not that these are the first examinations. They have been held every week or two throughout the year. But these were squirrel-shot skirmishee; these are broadsides of shot and shell grape and canteter.

There is no doubt that one of the most important results to be attained by education is to think clearly and accurately, and that one of the greatest aids to this result has been sadly neglected in our State. I refer to the practice of writing essays carefully and critically and especially to the practice of requiring all examinations to be in writing. It is astonishing how students who are not precise in their language, clear in their ideas, or logical in their reasoning correct these faults by the practice of putting all their ideas on paper. In many schools of the North the tendency is to carry this system too far. An oral recitation is scarcely ever heard. Geography, grammar, history and spelling are all recited after having been written on the blackboard. A judicious combination of the two systems is doubtless best for the production of thoroughly trained and well balanced men, and it is the desire of the officers of the University to make such a combination. Let us look at the system of instruction which prevails

THE ORAL RECITATIONS are doubtless sufficiently well known to your readers. They are often times rendered more lively and instructive by well selected but short exercises on the blackboard. E g. In Latin, by changing some part of the text from the direct to the indirect discourse or the reverse, or by renderi: g into English some long and complicated sentence, or by taking a Latin stem and forming therefrom Latin and English derivative words, &c., to be conscious of all that took place. &c. There are many ways by which recitation may and should be varied. By constant exercises of the kind indicated the student is interested in and studies the language, and is not satisfied with reciting a passage and then forever discarding it from his mind.

> A most excellent stimulus is afforded by frequent UNEXPECTED WRITTEN EXAMINA-TIONS throughout the entire year. The class enters the room expecting a recitation as usual, but finds the programme to be a written examination. Sometimes the examination relates to topics and passages long before passed over; sometimes the very lesson assigned for the day is the subject for the written examination, and in that case the teacher has an opportunity to see who naps and also to compare the original unaided work of the class with that which they exhibit after having received his instruction. These frequent written examinations are quite essential to good teaching, for in no other way can the teacher so well determine wherein his own instruction has been weak and wherein strong.

Near the close of the session, when the studies are finished, the students undergo the FINAL EXAMINATION. These, of course, are very severe and comprehensive, subjecting the student to a thorough test. The final examination lasts from five hours to two days, depending upon the study. Every member of the class has the same questions, so that there may be opportunity for exact comparison. Of course the students are not allowed to communicate with each other. On the final examinations, which are the chief element in determining the standing, the student is examined not only on that which he has recited, but original and new questions must be answered, e g., in the classics passages are offered which have not been seen by the class before; in mathematics, original problems are presented; in chemistry, substances unknown to the student are presented to be analyzed and determined. These examinations test not only the student's diligence and application by questions concerning work done. but also his ability to utilize his knowledge and use his training in the performance of work to some extent original. The obtaining of diplomas and degrees from the University depends upon passing success fully the final examinations Itisafine sight, twenty or thirty young men vigorous and healthy, their minds stretched to the greatest tension, grappling with mastering problems requiring acute analysis and concen-

Sometime ago a gentlemen of England invented a very nice instrument to detect atoms too small to be seen by the eye in the air. It was shaped like a common chicken cock vane and turned with the wind. being hollow the air passed into the mouth of the cock which was shaped like a funnel and thence to the tall upon which were plates of glass with glycerine adhering to the bottom. Mounted upon a platform he would the monotony of daily translation and examine with a powerful microscope bring from the different points of the compass. From the city of London he had soot, spores and many other items the inhaling of which is injurious to health. The experiment demonstrates that there is in the air of towns and cities sources of disease and death, and which can be destroyed by a strict and rigid discipline of cleanliness. In our city of Raleigh we have known coops of disease to break out in several families, when the wind blew from a certain course, and that course was over a large amount of uncovered filth. The air contained its foul and poisonous ingredients, and hence breathing it, caused disease. It is a matter of no small moment to the citizens of Raleigh that all the back yards and lots of the city are kept clean, a thing which we regret to say has never been done. In fact it is generally so healthy a place that the usual means of cleanliness in this respect have been disregarded. Other cities and towns have their Boards of Realth whose duty it is to see all such places cleansed and kept so during at least the Summer season and this ought to be done here. We would speak earnestly on this matter, for we know whereof we speak when we say that there have been doctors and apothecary bills and wasting sickness which would have been unknown had the back lots of the city been kept clean. The poison

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. Hon. C. C. Clark for Governor.

NEWBERN, N. C., May 19th.

Editor Raleigh News:-All who have given the subject much attention have concluded that the Conservative party in North Carolina must have a candidate for the Governorhave a candidate for the Governor-ship in the coming election, of unu-sual ability, and extraordinarily blameless political reputation. It is understood in this part of the State, that our first choice, Vance, will not be a candidate. This being so, we have been casting about for another leader. Many of these to whom we would naturally look in this emerwould naturally look in this emer-gency here like Hon. Geo. Davis, de-clined the use of their names as canold dates. The great men among our old political leaders seem wearied with their past labors and they shur the fore front of modern political warfare. There are a number of second rate men among the older, and active class of politicians who would not hesitate to accept the candidacy tor the Governorship; nor can they perceive that such a course would be dieastrous to the party. But the party must see, must look with a clear vision upon its prospects, and situation, and must not deliver itself up, a sacrifice to the ambition of litle men. There is a man who resides in this city, who is neither an old politician nor is he a new man in politics or reputation. His reputation though co-extensive with the State, is not that of a mere rolitician or office-holder. His reputation is for interrity high tender. utation is for integrity, high-toned principles and surpassing ability as an orator. The Democratic party of North Carolina needs just such man to lead it in the coming struggle. Such a man cannot be brought forward from every clique of poli-ticians, nor from every locality. The gentleman to whom allusion is made is Hon. C. C. Clark. His antecedents are such as to satisfy the tender-foot-ed sensitive voter who fears the fireeating excitement of a past age, and eating excitement of a past age, and his record as one who has been always loyal to the State of North Carolina, is such as to insure the confidence and support of the whole party. Hon. C. C. Clark is just such a man as the party has been 'inquiring for as a leader. Hon. C. C. Clark being a candidate for the Governorship would be a powerful advoernorship would be a powerful advo-cate of our cause as a public speaker. The nomination of Hon. C. C. Clark would be acceptable to the West. A canvass of the State by him would beget an enthusiasm which the party has not experienced for a great while. The nomination of Hon. C. C. Clark would insure the complete success of the party.

The decision has given great joy to the factory operatives.

REV. MARK S. GROSS of the St. Thomas Catholic Church in Wilmington left last Sunday for Baltimore to ship for the city of Rome.

THE Centennial Commissioners are offering medals to the best bands in the country, the contest to take place in July or later. Here's a chance for the Mt. Airy boys.

THE Supreme court of Georgia has decided an appeal taken for a judgment of fifty thousand dollars in favor of Henry M. Drane of Wilmington, and D. Callahan, in a case against the Savannah & Charleston Railroad Company.

THEODORE THOMAS postponed his Sunday night concerts on the Centennial grounds at the request of one or two religious congregations who were holding meetings near by. The idea of starting a band of music near a church in worship; why the young people could not hold themselves

THE Whig tells of a concert given in Richmond last Monday night by the Fifth Baptist Church at which a prize was to be awarded the "best dressed single lady" in the audience A committee of seven settled gentlemen were selected as judges. This looks like encouraging a love of dress he has worn all the war paint of the villain escaped.

REV. DR. WILSON of Wilmington s in attendance upon the Presty terian General Assembly at Savannah. No MAN should remain in high office with even the smell of suspicion on his garments. Whether Secretary of State Howerton be guilty or not he should resign his office and invite the most searching investigation. A truly honest man publicly charged with fraud in office would at once throw off his official insignia and say to the world, "Here I am, come and examine me." No matter f a poor-house stare him in the face, if he knows he is honest and has done his duty, there is a faith within him richer than dollars and cents and which assures him he shall not be forsaken, but that a justification full and complete shall come to him in the end. Such is the style of men the country once had and in this centennial year are looking for again, and may God grant the State and National Conventions to find them.

OUR friend Experidon, the Burglarian Monk, has arrived at Baltimore and lectured there Sunday night on Palestine. The little boys followed him about the street calling him "Dom Pedro." Experidon glories in never washing his face or his person and never combing his hair and says his vows as a monk prohibit him from sleeping on a bed. Ex. visited the City Hall while here. He smoked a cigar all the while Dick Fowler the janitor told him it was against the rules to smoke there. He only smiled and kept on smoking. Dick told bim so again. But he only smiled the louder and kissed his hand at Dick and continued to smoke. And then it was that Dick put it thus: "You long-haired, dirty-faced, clay-bank Injun, if you don't "git" I'll kick you down these steps." The monk rapidly descended.

A VOICE FROM WILLIAM AL LEN'S BIRTH-PLACE. We find a correspondence from Windsor, N. C. in a late number of the Cincinnati Enquirer. The cor respondent says he writes from the immediate neighborhood of Wiliam Allen's birth-place, and that "in North Carolin we say hurra for William Allen!" He continues that the people of North Carolina owe a great deal for property purchased at the rate of eighty or eighty-five cents on the dollar and they are willing to pay for it in the carrency as it was at the purchase. The people of this State do not wish to pay salaried officials and taxes in gold "Five bales of cotton," says the writer, "now pay my taxes; restore gold and it will take six bales." The position of his family would bring letter continues as follows: fools were hatched, did you ever see such a set of foolish fools as those Southern members of Congress who voted for specie resumption? Their constituents are shingled all over with debts, which they cannot pay even in greenbacks. They are less able to pay in gold. The grip of Wall street is on the throat of the country and the poor debtors and tax-payers pant for more currency and better prices as the victims in the Black Hole of Calcutta panted for air." The Cincinnati Enquirer itself could not have written a letter more to the point than this! We all remember the splendid card played by the Enquirer in the article a few weeks since headed "As to North Carolina's Claims" and which was copied by this paper and is now on the rounds of the State press True it was a splendid resume of North Carolina's resources but a much better advertisement for William Allen for President.

The country was amazed when Grant relieved Custer of his command. Some thought it was Custer's evidence in the post-tradership traffic that was to blame and others imagined it was his exposure of the military knave Merrill, but all were wrong. The World says Custer in his last number of "War Memoirs" in the Galaxy has done the unutterable thing. He has praised Gen. McClellan as a soldier "whose mental training and abilities were of a higher order and whose military qualifications and knowledge were superior to those possessed by any officer who subsequently led the army of the Potomac to battle," And Custer says again that the defeat of McClellan was due to his foes in the rear and not to the enemy in his front. The World thinks it strange at this day to hear one of the popular soldiers of the war re-echo so clearly the bitter charge which McClellan himself made from Savage's Station fourteen years ago to Stanton : "If I save this army now, I tell you plainly that I owe no thanks to you or to any other persons in Washington. You have done your best to sacrifice this army." All this is a death-stab at Grant's inordinate vanity. To think of the ten years

"the best soldier the world ever saw" and then to have Custer d meal ic his face, it was more he could bear. The World says if McClellan had succeeded in putting down the rebellion he would have been elected President, as his enemies well knew, and the Republica can party would have gone to destruction, and we should have had no carpet baggers, no Credit Mobilier, vo Butlerism, no Grantism, no Tweedism, no Belknappery.

WHAT THEY ARE DOING. Report has it that Mr. James H. Harris, the colored Damosthenes at one time noted as recalcirant towards the Las-Ha-Logan combination, has been reconciled by clerkship on the Government building and the ad libitum use of Col. Harris' mule and buggs. In a meeting of the late State Executive Committee, to attest his renewed zeal "Jeems" is said to have attacked Mr. Holden and assailed Capt. Bill White popularly known as "Charlie at the Cat-Hole," and the Republican chairman of the County committee, and also Maj. R. C. Badger, District Attorney, and others, though to be not of the "combination," Mr. Holden, like Matthew at the receipt of customs, sits patiently at the delivery of the mails, the recipient alike of base flattery and ingratitude. It seems to have become good test of true and tried Repubicanism to abuse Mr. Holden. Mr. White is the strongest of Wake Republicans, and Gen. Willie D. Jones is among the most popuar of his party, while Major Badger has been regarded as both able and useful in the party. He has been delegated to Cincinnati along with Hon. W. A. Smith and is doubtless "fixed." Dockery the Pee Dee candidate for Governor is catching fits in circles in harmony with the contre. He is charged with baving during the war introduced a measure into the Convention or Legislature providing for the sale of all the free negroes and applying the proceeds aid of the war. They say he borrowed ten thousand dollars of Ben. Butler, and in Congress voted against the Fifteenth Amendment and the Enforcement Act. They charge him with defeating the Reonblicans in organizing the late Constitutional Convention through persisting in his candidacy for the presidency thereof. It is also charged that he is too respectably connected, and that, as Governor, the bigh and social im into too close relation with th Democrats. Jake Bowman of Mitchell, aspirant for Lieut. Governor, is bitterly assailed at the center. It is remembered against him that he vehemently denounced civil rights in the Legislature and in the late convention would not cast complimentary vote for a negro for doorkeeper. These things and many others disturb the barmony of the center and circumference with our Radical bretbren, but we must have another chapter.
